Meet the Nicholas School of the Environment’s Student Services Team

We are Here for You!
Sherri Nevius
Associate Dean, Student Services

Responsibilities: Provides leadership of the Student Services team – Durham and Duke Marine Lab. The Student Services team provides the administrative foundation for the quality educational services provided at the Nicholas School. We foster an engaged, inclusive school community, promote career and professional readiness, inspire environmental leadership, and encourage lifelong learning for all students, as defined by the Duke University Mission. Student Services consists of professional masters recruiting and admissions, student administration, career and professional development, and PhD and undergraduate programs.

Bio: Sherri first came to the Nicholas School in 1998 to pursue a Master of Environmental Management (MEM) degree. Prior to coming back to Duke in 2008 in her current position, she worked for URS Corporation as a project manager (environmental consultant) focusing on environmental management systems, program development, and environmental compliance and conformance. Sherri is a Midwesterner: grew up in Wisconsin and attended Cornell College in Iowa for her undergraduate degree. Though she has made North Carolina her home, she still wears a cheese head! Sherri is married, has two boys, 4 dogs, a turtle, and fish – and finds sanity in biking (all kinds!), running, gardening, and working on home improvement projects.
Allison Besch
Director, Career and Professional Development and Executive Education

Responsibilities: Allison provides strategic direction for a comprehensive and integrated professional development center including Career Services for NSOE professional students and Executive Education (non-degree short courses) for environmental professionals. Primary duties include supporting client/employer relations and new program development for both programs and coaching professional students in career exploration.

Bio: Allison has over 20 years of experience in science communication and educational program design, including work at National Geographic magazine, the Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary, and the North Carolina Maritime Museums. Allison holds a BA in geology and environmental studies from Colgate University, and a Master of Environmental Management degree from Duke University. In her free time, she enjoys hiking, yoga, traveling, and cooking, but not necessarily in that order.
Cynthia (Cindy) Peters
Assistant Dean, Student Administration

Responsibilities: Strategic lead for Student Administration including student academic and personal advising, financial aid, registration, academic standards and policies; staff manager for undergraduate programs.

Bio: Cindy has worked at Duke for 43 years in several different schools and offices including the Law School, the Sanford School and the Graduate School. She has been with the Nicholas School since December of 2000. Cindy is a native Floridian: born in Miami, she lived in Florida until the age of 12 when her family moved overseas. She returned to the US to attend college in Atlanta, Georgia and is a proud graduate of Agnes Scott College and an equally proud Duke fan. Outside of work, Cindy likes to read, do crossword puzzles, play cards and spend time with family and friends.
Erika Lovelace-Young
Registrar and Associate Director of Student Administration and Advising

Responsibilities: Manage and coordinate course scheduling and registration processes, manage and coordinate activities involved in the establishment and maintenance of student records, audit degrees for graduation, student advising, manage the prerequisite status of all students, and leads the new student on-boarding process.

Bio: Erika has worked at Duke since 2002 and at the Nicholas School of the Environment since 2005. Erika’s academic background includes a BA in theatre arts and a MS degree in management with a focus in project management. In her down time, Erika enjoys a competitive game of Scrabble and Words with Friends, reading, card games and she’s a huge fan of professional football. Go Eagles! Erika hails from a big family – she has 4 sisters, 4 brother-in-laws, 5 nieces and nephews, 2 loving parents and her very sweet cat, Olive, whom she loves and adores.
Katie Wood
Assistant Director, Undergraduate & Marine Lab Programs, Student Administration

Responsibilities: I support the students, faculty, and academic programs at the Duke Marine Lab in Beaufort, NC. I’m responsible for the overall coordination of academics at the Marine Lab and specifically responsible for the undergraduate program, including the degrees in Marine Science and Conservation. As a tight knit staff group, the Marine Lab student services team works closely together to provide the best support for all of our student populations: MEM, PhD, and undergraduates. In addition to student support services, I support travel class planning, and Beaufort based field courses, and undergraduate student advising.

Bio: Katie started with Duke University at the Marine Lab in 2007. Katie is originally from Batavia, IL and has a MA degree in Higher Education Administration from SUNY Stony Brook, and a BS in Media Studies from the University of Illinois. When not at work you can find Katie out on the boat with her family or in the company of a menagerie of animals.
Benjamin Pereklita
Director of Admissions

Responsibilities: Direct and manage all aspects of recruitment and admissions supporting the MEM, MF and DEL-MEM programs. This includes managing a team of admissions officers, creating and supporting a recruitment and admissions strategy, collaborate with faculty leadership, registrar, financial aid, communications, career development and more.

Bio: My name is Ben and I have over 10 years of higher education experience and am most recently joining us from Duke’s School of Nursing, where I have been working for 4.5 years in the Office of Admissions. Before Duke, I served in multiple Admissions roles since 2012 at NCSU (processor, recruiter, tech support, etc.). I bring a student-centered mentality, strong Slate and technology skills, faculty engagement, a collaborative spirit, and clear understanding of the work we have ahead of us. I earned my BS in business administration at North Carolina State University. My wife (Allison) and I have two children (Clarke who is 2 ½ years old and Reese who is now 4 months). I love donuts (and will exercise for them! ha). I loves dogs (we have 2 golden retrievers, Wrigley and Harper). I am extremely competitive and active winning several adult league championships in: kickball, softball, and tennis. When I am not working, you will find my family and I in our happiest place: The Mountains (Mostly Asheville but the surrounding areas as well). I love hiking, backpacking and kayaking.
Nick Lehman
Assistant Director of Admissions

Responsibilities: Nick connects with bright and motivated folks from all over the nation and world who wish to include the Nicholas School in their professional journey. As a member of the admissions team, he evaluates and recommends candidates for the MEM, MF, and DEL-MEM programs and helps guide them through the application process.

Bio: Nick came to the Nicholas School in August 2022, bringing 15 years of experience in secondary and higher education. In previous roles, he has been an undergraduate admissions officer, a cross country and track coach, and a housing coordinator. Nick was born and raised in Durham and holds a bachelor's degree from Davidson College. He enjoys running, camping, hiking, and traveling.
Melissa A. Kotačka
Assistant Director of Admissions

Responsibilities: Melissa recruits prospective students for the professional master’s programs at the Nicholas School and serves as a member of our Admissions team to evaluate and recommend candidates for admission. She employs various channels to meet bright, talented, and ambitious individuals whom we hope will find their next intellectual home here at NSOE.

Bio: Melissa joined the Student Services team in July 2019 and brings a range of admissions experience to the NSOE. She maintains a fiercely student-centered approach to her work, and has presented at state, regional, and national conferences on best practices of admissions and college counseling. She is a Nationally Certified Counselor and Certified Thanatologist who holds a M.A. in Career Counseling and Placement with an additional concentration in grief and bereavement from North Carolina Central University. When not working, she’s most likely catering to the whims of her rescue dog or curled up with her nose in a book.
Emily Bilcik
Program Coordinator, Executive Education

Responsibilities: Emily plans, coordinates, and implements the grant-funded program “Water Innovation and Leadership Development (WILD). This includes preparing and executing high-quality professionally oriented seminars, conferences, workshops, distance-learning sessions, and events. Emily also supports other Executive Education programs and Student Services events.

Bio: Emily started working at Duke in October 2021. Prior to joining the Nicholas School team, she served as the Project Coordinator for the University of North Texas’ Green Fund Sustainability Initiative where she coordinated the campus community garden among various other community-based environmental projects ranging from pollinator protection, waste reduction, green energy and beyond. While in North Texas, she served as a volunteer board of directors member for Keep Denton Beautiful. Emily’s previous work is focused on environmental education; she served as an educator at the Athens-Clarke County Public Utilities Department and Water Conservation Office, Charlie Elliot Wildlife Center, and the University of Georgia Office of Sustainability. She received a BS in Forest Resources and a Master of Natural Resources from the University of Georgia’s Warnell School of Forestry and Natural Resources. Emily loves bird watching and spending time in the garden.
Moriah Carleton
Program Coordinator, Career and Professional Development

Responsibilities: Moriah leads the Stanback Administrative Team and assists with administrative tasks for staff, faculty, and students. Assists in managing and supporting Nicholas School Executive Education courses and trainings. Supports CPDC staff by assisting with projects and events.

Bio: Moriah Carleton is a recent graduate from North Carolina State University with a B.A. in International Studies with a concentration in Global Relations, as well as a minor in Linguistics. Moriah has interned with DCID for the past two summers as a staff assistant, working with foreign diplomats. She has been with the Nicholas School since August 2018. In her spare time, she enjoys traveling to different places, and spending time with her family. She has spent time in China, Jordan, and Israel. She hopes to continue her involvement in the field of education and international development.
Courtney Sullivan
Assistant Director, Career and Professional Development

Responsibilities: Courtney’s key responsibilities include career coaching and advising MEM and MF students, as well as a focus on engaging with employers and alumni on behalf of CPDC. In this role, Courtney researches, develops, and fosters potential and existing employer relationships with the end goal of employment and internship opportunities for MEM and MF students. She will also support the Stanback Administrative Team by helping manage relationships with participating employers.

Bio: Courtney joins the CPDC staff after earning a Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration from Taylor University and a Master’s degree in Higher Education from Ball State University. Her most recent role was as a Career Counselor and Student Employment Coordinator for Purdue University Fort Wayne in Indiana. Courtney enjoys traveling and trying new things in her free time.
Deanna Knighton
Assistant Director, Career and Professional Development

Responsibilities: Provide career coaching to MEM/MF students. Manage career readiness curriculum. Lead process for internship, enrichment, and student groups’ career treks funding.

Bio: Deanna Knighton joined the Career and Professional Development Center in December 2019. Deanna has a Master’s degree in Agricultural and Natural Resource Economics from the University of Florida (Go Gators!) and a Master of Education in Higher Education Administration from North Carolina State University. She is a certified Global Career Development Facilitator. She grew up on a farm and has experience in government, a non-profit, and abroad. Deanna enjoys coming alongside and working with students as they seek to determine and achieve their professional goals. When not at work, she likes being outside (hiking, camping, exploring, gardening, etc.), reading, traveling, spending time with people, attending performing arts events, and all things Durham.
Laura Lipps
Assistant Director, Executive Education

Responsibilities: Laura coordinates and supports Nicholas School Executive Education courses, trainings, and events. Coordinates event planning, on-campus and e-learning initiatives; implements the Certificate in Environmental Communications.

Bio: Prior to joining the Nicholas School, Laura’s prior professional positions included policy analyst at the Ecological Society of America and research assistantships at the Great Lakes Bioenergy Research Center and the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center. She also served in the U.S. Peace Corps as an Environmental Education Extensionist in El Salvador. Originally from the Washington D.C. area, she holds a B.A. in Biology from Earlham College and a M.S. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison’s Nelson Institute for Environmental Studies. In her free time, she enjoys wildlife watching, Zen meditation, and shooting the breeze.
Kelley Robbins-Thompson
Program Coordinator, DEL-MEM Program, Student Administration

Responsibilities: Coordinates and oversees daily operations of the DEL-MEM program; plans, manages, and implements the logistics and administration of DEL place-based sessions; provides administrative support for DEL students and faculty; supports DEL recruitment efforts; collaborates with faculty director to identify best practices and offer programmatic recommendations.

Bio: Kelley graduated from the Nicholas School’s Master of Environmental Management program in 2019 and joined the Student Services team in 2020. Prior to her Nicholas School adventures, she served as the Community Agriculture Director at a conservation and community land trust in Athens, GA. Kelley has a Master of Social work from Washington University in St. Louis and a BA in political science and urban studies from Rhodes College. She is also a proud Returned Peace Corps Volunteer (Thailand, ‘03-‘05). When not at work, you can find Kelley hiking with her family, playing in the dirt with her son, triathlon-ing, and spending as much time outdoors as possible!
Mary Beth Magallanes
Staff Assistant
Student Administration/Student Services

Responsibilities: When a student has a concern and is not sure who can help with it, Mary Beth is their first stop. She knows a little bit about what everyone else in Student Services does, and directs traffic accordingly. She has good relationships with staff assistants throughout NSOE, so she is able to help with the assistance of her network. Also, she schedules all prospective student visits with staff and faculty. In addition to assisting Enrollment Services, she supports the work of those on the Student Administration team, and is fortunate to have contact with everyone from undergrads to PhD candidates.

Bio: Mary Beth has been with the Nicholas School since September 2018. Prior to working at the Nicholas School, she worked at Duke Health Technology Solutions (DHTS) - the OIT for Duke Health - from 2013 to 2018. One of her reasons for wanting to move out of DHTS was not ever having contact with the patients and knowing how her department’s work affected them. Mary Beth’s favorite part of her work at the Nicholas School is student contact, and her greatest joy at work is seeing students support and guide each other in tough times. She moved to Carrboro, NC from Islip Terrace, NY in 2010, and it’s the best decision she ever made. She now owns a home in Graham, NC. She has a BA in Journalism from Marymount College (Tarrytown, NY), and she loves writing, book discussion groups, cooking, exploring new neighborhoods, and is very happy living with her human, David, and canines, Atticus and Daisy.
Melanie McIntire
Program Coordinator, Professional Programs

Responsibilities: Melanie’s core responsibilities include managing and implementing the master’s project process (group and solo projects) for all professional master’s students, identifying and coordinating client projects and faculty-driven group projects, engaging with faculty program chairs, developing, implementing, and summarizing student MP evaluations; managing the structure and logistics of NSOE’S graduate certificates including web updates; and supporting special projects in the Professional Programs.

Bio: Melanie comes to us from the Developing a Destination for Talent initiative at Virginia Tech where she served as the Project Manager. She received her Master of Public Administration (MPA) at West Virginia University (Let’s Go Mountaineers!) and is originally from West Virginia as well. Melanie has a passion for working in higher education and hopes to continue working and growing in this field. Aside from work, she has two dogs, an Australian Sheppard/Lab mix, and a Golden Retriever, that she enjoys taking on runs and hikes outside! Along with this, Melanie enjoys traveling to places that provide all the great scenic views, trying out new recipes in the kitchen, and spending time with her family and friends!
Danielle Wiggins
Assistant Director, PhD Programs, Student Administration

Responsibilities: Danielle directly administers and manages academic, operational, and financial activities for four of the six NSOE PhD programs (ENV, ECS, UPEP, UPE). She serves as the liaison for NSOE’s business office and the other two PhD programs (MSC and ITEHP) as well as Duke Graduate School. Danielle is an essential advocate for NSOE PhD programs and students.

Bio: Prior to joining the Nicholas School in 2015, Danielle served as Logistics Manager at Duke’s National Evolutionary Synthesis Center (NESCent). She received her MEd with a concentration in College Administration & Leadership from Purdue University Global and a BS in Business Administration from Gardner-Webb University. Danielle is a trained Health & Wellbeing Coach. She is also a member of NSOE’s Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Actionators. In her spare time, Danielle enjoys traveling, community service, and spending time with her family and friends.
Marcia Crippen
IMEP Program Coordinator

Responsibilities: Marcia provides coordination for all routine program activities, student services and program logistics for the iMEP Program while students are in the US, as well as leading pre-arrival student services, such as visas and course registration, while students are at DKU. Marcia collaborates with the iMEP Faculty Lead, Dr. Jackson Ewing, and a number of DKU-based colleagues to support students prior to and during their time in Durham. Additionally, she assists in the iMEP recruitment and admissions process.

Bio: Prior to starting at Duke in September 2021, Marcia worked as a Study Abroad Advisor at Wake Forest University for four years where she managed and lead community-based global service programs in Thailand, Cambodia, and Ecuador. She holds a M.S.Ed degree in Higher Education from Old Dominion University and is currently pursuing an Ed.D. in Educational Leadership at UNC Charlotte. Marcia enjoys exploring new places in the U.S. and abroad while also re-visiting her favorite vacation spots, such as Disney World and the Finger Lakes in Upstate NY.
Gladys Mayer
Program Chairs Assistant

Responsibilities: Gladys supports the MEM and MF faculty Program Chairs in a variety of administrative duties, program delivery and organizational functions. This role will support various areas related to the professional programs, to include but is not limited to, engaging with faculty program chairs, program-related scheduling, first-level student advising, managing student and program data, support advisory committees, summer on-boarding, internal and external program reviews, coordinate admitted student communications between program chairs and Enrollment Services staff, and supporting special projects.

Bio: Gladys brings to the Nicholas School over 25 years of business administrative experience in both the private sector and the non-profit sector. She first came to Duke University in 2002 to support student services for the Organization for Tropical Studies, which offered graduate and undergraduate study abroad programs in Costa Rica, Peru, Brazil, and South Africa. Previously, she worked in international ecotourism logistics and management. Gladys holds a degree in Business Administration from San Ignacio de Loyola University in Lima, Peru. She is also a Certified Professional Photographer from the Kodak Institute of Lima. In her free time, she enjoys photography, hiking, traveling, and spending time with her husband, two daughters, and two dogs.
 Responsibilities: Bailee provides overall coordination of the undergraduate program on Durham Campus. She is responsible for planning, coordinating, and administering the logistics and functions for the Environmental Sciences and Policy (ENV/ESP) and Earth and Climate Sciences (ECS) majors and minors. She implements special events such as Graduation with Distinction, while working collaboratively and strategically with faculty Directors of Undergraduate Studies and other UG-focused colleagues. Bailee also provides primary administrative support to the Certificate of Sustainability Engagement and the Stanback Fellowship Program. She manages web updates, assists with course registration and scheduling matters, new student on-boarding and provide support for orientation.

Bio: Bailee is a recent graduate from East Carolina University with a B.A. in Psychology and a minor in Biology. Bailee's favorite college memory is being Philanthropy Chairman for her sorority, Phi Mu, where she got to support the nonprofit, Children's Miracle Network Hospitals. Bailee has been at the Nicholas School since September 2019, where she supported the Stanback Fellowship Program, The Career and Professional Development Center, the DEL-MEM DC Leadership Module, and now the Undergraduate Program and Registrar. In her free time, Bailee enjoys traveling, playing with her dog, Phoebe, and spending time with friends and family!
Gwendolyn Womble
Enrollment Services Program Coordinator, Duke Marine Lab, Student Administration

Responsibilities: Provide administrative support to key professional and undergraduate student and program functions as part of the Duke University Marine Lab and Student Services team. Support, plan, coordinate and administer activities and select programming. Serve as registrar for Duke University Marine Laboratory undergraduate and CEM students; schedule ML courses; manage application and admissions process for non-Duke students; administer course evaluations for ML; process visa paperwork for international scholars, students, and visitors. Meets and recruits prospective students for Nicholas’ professional masters programs; also assists in coordinating the Coastal Environmental Management concentration of the MEM degree.

Bio: Gwendy is originally from Henderson, NC but has lived in Carteret County for more than a decade. She acquired a BS in Horticulture Science from NC State University in 2003. For 12 years Gwendy was the Conservation Horticulturist at the NC Aquarium at Pine Knoll Shores where she worked designing and maintaining interior and exterior habitats, providing outreach to community groups and individuals and working alongside other agencies to promote native plants in coastal communities. She also spent time in a high school classroom teaching Agriscience and Horticulture. Gwendy has no free time as she is the mom of 2 boys who keep her running around outside, jumping on trampolines and swimming in the sound. She enjoys reading, gardening and eating ice cream.
The Student Services team looks forward to meeting you in the fall and interacting with you throughout the next two years and after you graduate.
